

Definition of the Services and Disclaimer by EuroFlow

The EuroFlow Consortium and its participants will use their best efforts to provide diagnostic strategies, technical information and advice in the field of flow cytometry, fully in accordance with all applicable rules, regulations and academic standards. Such information and advice might be provided during EuroFlow Educational Workshops, during national or international conferences, via the EuroFlow website, via email correspondence, or via any other oral or written communication. This information and advice, hereinafter referred to as Services, are rendered under the express condition that nothing shall be construed as a guarantee that the use of the Services will be useful for any particular purpose. The Services are investigational in nature, hence that these Services are limited to “best efforts” only. As a consequence hereof the EuroFlow Consortium or any of its participants cannot and shall not be held liable for any claims or damages by the party requesting the Services or any third party, in connection with or as a result of the Services. The party requesting the Services undertakes to indemnify and hold harmless the EuroFlow Consortium and its individual participants at all times against all of such damages or claims, except in case of gross negligence or wilful misconduct on the side of the party providing the Services.