Promoting Meaningful Youth Participation

Consider the opportunities you can offer

Prevent a 'check-the-box' approach

Identify and involve existing groups of young people

Remember!

- Simply having young people present does not result in 'meaningful' participation.
- Young people must have a certain level of empowerment, responsibility, and decision-making power to participate meaningfully.
- Continuously ask yourself: How are young people involved in this stage/element of the program?

Things to take home

- Challenges can be overcome and worked around
- Learn by doing
- Establish clear “rules of the game”
- Youth participation is crosscutting in the whole organization
- Youth can/should be the bridge to make complicated processes youth-friendlier choice.
