PRAYING THE BIBLE

Dear Friends,

Since April I have been returning time and time again in prayer and meditation to Psalm 27:4 [ESV], One thing have I asked of the Lord, that will I seek after: that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to gaze upon the beauty of the Lord and to inquire in His temple.

The first thing I have done is to turn the verse into a prayer that I can pray to God. My prayer is not perfect, but I pray the verse by saying, "Lord, take my heart so my sole desire is to dwell in Your house and behold Your beauty." I pray this prayer "straight up" with great frequency. I did not include in the prayer a reference to inquiring or meditating upon the Lord, but I use the prayer as a means to both meditate upon the Lord and to inquire of Him.

I often find that praying and meditating Psalm 27:4 makes me more conscious of the beauty of creation. It is easier for me to praise God for the beauty that I see and to thank Him for the beauty. I then find it easier to praise God as the creator and sustainer and source of this beauty. I also find I slide into adoring Him - if this created world is beautiful with a multi-faceted and ever-changing beauty, then how much more beautiful must God Himself be - the cause is greater than the effect!

One interesting by-product of my praying and meditating Psalm 27:4 is that it often turns my heart to my wife and family. Thinking about the beauty and goodness of God often leads me to appreciate the beauty of my wife and family and makes me thankful to God for His grace and kindness to me in giving me my wife and family.

In my praying of this psalm I ask the Lord to take my heart. This reflects a deep biblical teaching that my heart is the command centre for my life from which flows my thoughts, emotions, plans and desires. My heart always rests or trusts in something or someone or some unstable collection of somethings or someones. I ask the Lord then to take my heart so that my heart will learn to rest in Him alone. The more my heart rests in the Lord, the more that my prayer to gaze upon the beauty of the Lord will be heart-felt and authentic. Sometimes my praying of Psalm 27:4 will lead me to inquire of Him as to what my heart is really resting in.

So to pray Psalm 27:4 does not lead to the cessation of desire, nor to the horror that I have desires, but to an ordering and an appreciation of desire. Friends, I am a sinner still on the lowest rungs of holiness - please pray for me!

George +
