

We're all in this together (Col. 4:7-18)

The big difference (between life & death)

Paul powerfully applying the gospel

Why is Colossians 4:7-18 in our Bibles?

The gospel connects people like nothing else

Sticking with the gospel isn't a one-man job

Can even mend broken connections – the story of Mark

But how can people who are all different from one another help each other spiritually?

2. when we're willing to commit to one another's gospel growth

The diversity of Paul's fellow Christians...

Epaphras' heart

And yet...

How does this show up in the day-to-day?

Though we're different, we can still be deeply connected, and even grow in love...

1. when we recognise we've been changed by gospel grace

i. We can wrestle in prayer for others

ii. We can encourage others

iii. We can share our lives

iv. We can share resources
